

Key features of the Retirement Solutions Group Personal Pension Plan

The Financial Conduct Authority is a financial services regulator. It requires us, Royal London, to give you this important information to help you decide whether our Retirement Solutions Group Personal Pension Plan is right for you. You should read this document carefully, so that you understand what you're buying, and then keep it safe for future reference. If you're concerned that this plan may not be suitable for you, speak to a financial adviser.

This is an important document and you should read it together with your illustration. Please read it and keep for future reference.

Important information

This document covers both auto enrolment plans and non auto enrolment plans. There are some differences in the terms of your plan, depending on if you have an auto enrolment or non auto enrolment plan, which mostly relate to how you took out your plan. We have highlighted these differences in boxes so you can clearly see which terms apply to you.

If you were automatically enrolled into your employer's pension scheme with Royal London or you opted into the scheme, you'll have an auto enrolment plan. This will normally be the case. However, if your employer has set up a pension scheme which you had to choose to join by completing either a consent form or an application form then you'll have a non auto enrolment plan.

This document contains the following information:

- the aims of the Retirement Solutions Group Personal Pension Plan
- your commitments if you take out the plan
- the risks associated with the plan
- questions and answers that explain the plan's main features
- how to contact us.

This plan meets your demands and needs if you want to save for your retirement.

Its aims

- To build up a sum of money tax efficiently, which provides you with an income any time after age 55. This will change to age 57 from 6 April 2028.

Your commitment

- You and/or your employer agree to make regular contributions to your plan until your chosen pension date. Your chosen pension date is the date we currently expect you to start accessing your pension savings (you can change this at any time). You can also make a single contribution or a transfer payment from another pension plan.
- You agree to tell us if your circumstances change. For example, if you no longer have UK earnings or are no longer resident in the UK.
- You need to let the plan build up until you're allowed to access your pension savings.
- If you take pension savings from another pension plan you need to tell us as this may trigger the MPAA (money purchase annual allowance).

Auto enrolment plans

You agree to make the minimum contributions as set by your employer. For more information, see the 'What contributions do I have to make into my plan?' section.

Risks

- We can't guarantee what you'll get back at your chosen pension date. Various factors can alter your plan value. For example:
 - Investment performance, interest rates and charges may be different to those illustrated in your plan documentation.
 - You could stop making regular contributions or take a contribution holiday.

- You might take some or all of your pension savings earlier than your chosen pension date. If you plan to take your pension savings earlier than your chosen pension date, you should think about reviewing your investment option as it may no longer be appropriate. The investment growth of your remaining assets may be insufficient for you to maintain your income payments at the level you wish for the rest of your life. This could mean you would have to reduce your income payment amounts.
- Tax rules and legislation can change and the value of any tax benefits will depend on your individual circumstances.
- Investment returns are never guaranteed. So while there's a chance your pension savings could grow, their value can also go down. This means you could get back less than you started with.
- If you start your plan with a single contribution or transfer payment and then cancel it within 30 days, the amount returned will be less than you paid in if the value of your investment has fallen. The amount returned may also be reduced if you agree charges with a financial adviser for services they provide on your plan, and you tell us to take those charges from your plan.
- If you transfer pension savings from another pension plan, you may be giving up valuable benefits, and there's no guarantee that your pension savings will be more than if you'd stayed in your previous plan. We recommend you speak to a financial adviser before making any transfer.
- If you invest in the Royal London With Profits fund, the value of the fund may be reduced by applying a market value reduction if you take money out of the fund before your chosen pension date. The market value reduction is applied to ensure that the amount we pay you isn't unfairly higher than your share of the Royal London With Profits fund. For more information, see the 'With Profits' section.

Questions and answers

What is a group personal pension plan?

A group personal pension plan allows you to build up money tax efficiently for retirement to provide you with an income for life, cash lump sum(s) and/or tax-free cash. We designed the plan for people who want to build up tax efficient savings for retirement.

Is this a stakeholder pension plan?

No, this isn't a stakeholder pension plan because it doesn't meet the stakeholder criteria for contributions and charges set out by the government. Stakeholder pensions are widely available.

You should consider whether a stakeholder pension plan would meet your needs as well as this group personal pension. You should discuss this with a financial adviser.

What contributions can be made into my plan?

You and/or your employer can make regular contributions to your plan. You can also make single contributions at any time. If you have another pension plan, you may be able to transfer it into this plan.

You can make contributions into your plan either from your net salary or using salary exchange. Your employer will tell you on which basis you make contributions.

You can ask to stop contributing, or reduce contributions to your plan. You can also ask to take a contribution holiday and then restart contributions again. Stopping or reducing contributions will reduce the amount you get back from your plan and it may also reduce the amount of contributions your employer pays in. You can ask us for more information about the effect of stopping or reducing your contributions. If you were auto enrolled into this plan and stop making contributions, you may be re-enrolled by your employer at a future date.

Your illustration will show your contributions and the costs involved in running the plan.

Contributions made from your net salary

If your contributions are taken from your salary, after tax has been deducted, and paid to us by your employer, we'll add tax relief at the basic rate and invest it in your plan. We then reclaim the basic rate tax relief from HMRC.

If you're an intermediate rate (Scottish taxpayers only), higher rate or additional rate taxpayer, you could be entitled to claim more tax relief through a self-assessment tax return or by contacting your local tax office.

You'll receive tax relief on all regular and single contributions you make to your plan up to a maximum of £3,600 a year or 100% of your relevant UK earnings, whichever is greater. This is after tax relief at the basic rate of income tax is added; so you would only pay £2,880 for a gross contribution of £3,600. Any contributions made above the annual allowance may incur a tax charge. See 'What about tax?'.

Your regular contributions are usually paid monthly and can be paid as a percentage of your salary or as a fixed amount. Tax rules and legislation can change and the value of any tax benefits will depend on your individual circumstances.

Contributions made using salary exchange

Your employer may allow you to make contributions by salary exchange. This is an agreement between you and your employer where you voluntarily exchange part of your gross salary in return for employer contributions into your plan.

These contributions are taken before tax and National Insurance Contributions (NIC) are paid. As your salary's reduced, you pay less tax and NIC. Salary exchange may not be suitable for everyone. You should speak to your employer for more information.

What contributions do I have to make into my plan?

Auto enrolment plans only

Auto enrolment requires a total minimum contribution to your plan and your employer must contribute at least part of this. If your employer contributes less than the total minimum amount, you'll have to make up the difference.

Your employer will confirm the amount of contributions you'll have to make and will tell you if that amount will change. To find out more about the minimum contributions, visit your pension website or speak to a financial adviser.

Where are the contributions invested?

Your contributions, including any made on your behalf, are pooled with those made by other investors in unit-linked funds. These are invested in a range of different types of funds, including company shares, property, bonds and cash.

The unit-linked funds are made up of units, which you buy with your contributions. The price of these units depends directly on the value of the investments in the fund.

We work out the value of your investment in each unit-linked fund based on the total number of units you have in the fund and the unit price (the price at which we buy and sell units). If the unit price rises or falls, so will the value of your investment in the unit-linked fund.

You can choose from a wide range of investment options. You can read about these in our Pension Investment Options Guide.

Your employer's adviser may have created an additional range of investment options for your plan. If this applies to your plan, you'll find more information in your joining pack.

In the absence of an investment instruction from you, all contributions will be invested in the scheme default investment. The scheme default is the investment option selected by your employer or Royal London into which we'll invest your contributions. This is described in your plan documentation.

If you decide to choose your own investments and don't use the scheme default investment, there may be an additional charge.

You can switch your investments and/or change the investment choice for future contributions, although there may be conditions and a charge for doing so.

We have the right to delay a transfer, switch of investments or retirement before or after your chosen pension date. We'd do this to protect the interests of everyone invested in that particular fund.

With profits

Any contributions into the Royal London With Profits fund are used to buy units. The price of these units stays the same and the investment performance is paid out as additional units when we allocate regular and final bonuses to your plan.

We work out the value of your investment in the Royal London With Profits fund based on the total number of units you have, any regular bonus due but not yet paid, and any final bonus due. We may reduce this value by applying a market value reduction if you take money out of the fund at any time other than before your chosen pension date.

Should Royal London demutualise within a period of three years from the later of the date that you join the plan and the date Royal London receives the first contribution, you won't be entitled to any compensation for loss of membership rights in respect of the contributions paid to the plan.

If you're considering investing in the Royal London With Profits fund, we'll give you the booklet A guide to how we manage our with profits fund which you should read together with this key features document. This guide is a customer-friendly version of our Principles and Practices of Financial Management. It's important that you read and understand this document as it describes the way in which we manage our with profits business.

ProfitShare

We believe our customers should share in our success. That's why we'll aim to give your pension savings an extra boost by adding a share of our profits to your plan each year. So if we do well, so do you. We've called this your ProfitShare.

How ProfitShare works

We'll review our financial strength and performance at the end of each year to decide if ProfitShare can be awarded.

Any ProfitShare awarded will be applied in April each year as long as your plan was in force on 31 December the previous year and on the date the award is given.

It'll be based on the value of your plan at the date of the award and will be invested in the same investment choice as your other pension savings to help it grow.

You can take the value of your ProfitShare account along with the rest of your pension savings.

There's no guarantee that we'll be able to award ProfitShare every year.

If you invest in with profits, we'll work out your ProfitShare in a different way. You can find more information in the Royal London With Profits Fund factsheet.

What might I get when I access my pension savings?

Your illustration will provide an indication of what you might get back at your chosen pension date, although this can't be guaranteed.

What can I do with my plan when I access my pension savings?

Any time after age 55, changing to age 57 from 6 April 2028, you'll have access to your pension savings. You don't need to do anything immediately as your pension savings can remain invested, but you'll need to make a decision before you reach age 75.

There are a few options, some of which may need you to transfer to another plan but with each option you can normally take up to 25% tax-free.

You'll be able to use your plan value to:

- take a cash lump sum which can be some or all of your pension savings
- buy a secure income which will provide you with an income for life, this is often called 'an annuity'
- transfer to an income drawdown plan so you can receive an income and/or cash lump sum(s)
- or a combination of all the options.

An annuity gives you a guaranteed income for life. Different types of annuity are available to suit your individual circumstances. An income drawdown plan gives you flexibility to take income as and when you want.

You can shop around to find a plan that's right for you, with the best rates.

You don't need to have stopped working to take an income from your plan. Any income you take will be taxed as an earned income.

You should be aware that taking a large cash lump sum could increase the amount of tax you pay. See the What about tax? section for details.

When you access all or part of your pension savings, it's important that you think about your needs in both the early and the later parts of your retirement. It's your responsibility to ensure that your pension savings don't run out and will last you for the rest of your life.

You can find out more about your options including the risks and the benefits of each option at: royallondon.com/using-pension

What happens if I die?

We'll normally pay out your plan value as a lump sum to the individuals you've nominated such as your spouse, civil partner or dependants on your death.

If you've set up a trust to receive the death benefits, we'll pay the lump sum to the trustees.

Alternatively, we can use your plan value to provide an income for your beneficiaries such as your spouse, civil partner or dependants on your death.

What happens if I leave my employer?

If you leave your employer, you can continue to make contributions to the plan at any time. This includes regular contributions, single contributions or transfer payments. Any regular contributions must be made by Direct Debit.

Any contributions made by your employer will stop.

You can also stop paying contributions and leave your funds invested or transfer to another plan. If you leave your funds invested, the existing charges will continue to be deducted and will affect your plan value.

What are the charges?

We'll apply an annual management charge for managing your plan.

If you receive advice or a service from a financial adviser in relation to your group personal pension plan, charges may be deducted from your plan to cover the cost of that advice or service.

You don't need to receive individual advice or agree an adviser charge with a financial adviser to join your employer's group personal pension plan. And if you do agree an adviser charge with a financial adviser, these charges must relate to the specific services you receive on your plan. Your financial adviser must discuss and agree the services they'll provide to you in return for any adviser charges that will be deducted from your plan.

Your illustration will show you the charges that will apply to your plan, including any charges for the advice and services your financial adviser will provide. It will show when the charges will be deducted and how they may affect the value of your pension savings.

If before you reach your chosen pension date, you die or you transfer your pension savings away, we may deduct any outstanding initial charges which you may have agreed in return for advice and/or services that have been provided by your adviser.

Auto enrolment plans

If your employer's automatically enrolling you into their group personal pension to meet their duties to provide a suitable workplace pension, the charges are subject to a charge cap. This cap is 0.75% and applies to the default investment for the group personal pension.

We regularly review our charges and they could change in the future.

What about tax?

Our pension investment funds are generally free of UK income and capital gains tax. However, we can't reclaim tax deducted at source from the dividends of UK company shares.

There's a limit on the amount you can contribute into a pension plan without being subject to a tax charge. This limit is known as the annual allowance.

Under pension rules, the lump sum allowance (LSA) limits the amount of tax-free cash you can access from your pension plan. Normally 25% of the benefits you take can be paid tax-free, with an overall maximum limit of £268,275. Payments above this are subject to tax at your marginal rate of income tax. You may have protection that allows you to take more than this – your policy documents will tell you if this is the case.

The total of all tax-free lump sums, including tax-free lump sum death benefits and serious ill-health benefits, will be tested against a lifetime limit, set at £1,073,100. Any lump sums paid above this level will be taxed at the individual's or beneficiaries' marginal rate of income tax. This is known as the lump sum and death benefit allowance (LSDBA).

If you want to find out more, speak to a financial adviser or visit royallondon.com/taxallowances.

You don't receive tax relief on payments you transfer into your plan from another pension plan.

If you move overseas, restrictions may apply. To find out more, speak to a financial adviser.

If you die, there's normally no inheritance tax payable on the value of your plan, unless it forms part of your estate.

This will depend on how and to whom you nominate death benefits to be paid and you can find out more about this on our website at royallondon.com/nominating-beneficiaries

It's worth being aware that income tax may apply on death benefits paid to your nominated beneficiaries. If you die:

- before the age of 75, in most circumstances your beneficiaries don't pay income tax on the money they get, up to the lifetime allowance.
- after age 75, your beneficiaries will pay tax at their marginal income tax rate on any money taken.

Whichever pension income you receive, will be taxable as earned income. You can normally take up to 25% of the value of your plan tax-free, however the remainder of your plan will be taxed as earned income. If you take a large cash sum, you could end up paying more tax. It's important to check whether the cash sum will push you into a higher tax bracket.

Tax rules and legislation can change and the value of any tax benefits will depend on your individual circumstances or those of any beneficiaries receiving death benefits.

We recommend you get professional advice if you need more information on tax.

Can I transfer my plan?

You can transfer your plan to another pension plan at any time. Your illustration gives examples of how much you could potentially transfer to another pension plan, depending on when you transfer and how your investments perform.

We may also take a market value reduction from your plan. This could happen if you've invested in the Royal London With Profits fund.

For more information, see the 'With Profits' section.

Can I change my mind?

Auto enrolment plans

You can opt out of the plan. Your plan documents will tell you how and when you can do this. As long as you opt out of the plan within your opt out period, we'll arrange for your contributions to be refunded to you. If you've taken any lump sum(s) from your plan, these would need to be repaid. If you don't opt out, your plan will continue.

If you made a transfer payment to the plan, you can change your mind within 30 days of receiving the plan documents. You don't have to opt out of the plan as well. We'll pay the money back to the other pension provider it came from.

Non auto enrolment plans

You can change your mind within 30 days of receiving your plan documents. If you decide you don't want the plan, you must write and tell us. We'll then give you your contributions back. If you've taken any lump sum(s) from your plan, these would have to be repaid. If we don't hear back from you in 30 days, your plan will continue.

If you made a transfer payment to the plan, we'll pay the money back to the other pension provider it has come from.

You can contact us in writing by using the details in the How to contact us section.

If the transfer payment has come from an occupational pension scheme, the trustees of the transferring scheme may not accept the transfer payment back if you decide to cancel the plan.

If you made a single contribution or transfer payment and the plan value has fallen by the time it's cancelled, the amount returned will be the plan value. This will be less than you paid in.

If the plan value has increased by the time it's cancelled, the amount returned will be the value of the contributions. If you agreed charges with a financial adviser for services provided in relation to your plan, the amount returned will be reduced by any charge payments made to the adviser. This will be less than you paid in.

You'll find more details about this in your Plan details which you'll receive when you take out your plan.

How will I know how my plan's doing?

We'll send you a yearly statement to show you how your plan's doing.

You should review your plan on a regular basis to ensure your pension plan meets your needs. Your financial adviser, if you have one, can help you with this.

You can also see how your plan is performing on our mobile app.

Download the app from the App Store or Google Play.
